

Could you and your family make ends meet on $8.50 an hour?

Even though Pearl Anderson has worked as a cleaner in Baltimore's commercial office buildings for more than 10 years, she still only earns $8.50 an hour.

On such low wages, Baltimore cleaners struggle to pay their bills — even after working second and third jobs.

Hard-working cleaners like Pearl and her co-workers need — and deserve — a real raise that will allow their families to get ahead.

32BJ UNITED TO MAKE WORK PAY
Commercial Contract Campaign 2007

9 West Mulberry St. Baltimore, MD, 21201
(410) 244-5970, www.seiu32bj.org

